

ANIMAL JUNCTION

Slought.org for more information

Friday, November 9, 2007, 7pm

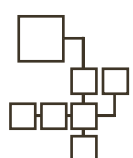

Slought Foundation | 4017 Walnut Street, Philadelphia

Jungle Joe presents a mother and baby sloth, with "Honey" the kinkajou (from Winnie the Pooh), and "Oliver" the Eurasian eagle owl (largest owl in the world)

Slought Foundation is pleased to announce a public presentation by professional wildlife educator Jungle Joe intended for all age groups. This event, combining entertainment with education, has been organized in conjunction with "In Defense of Sloth," an upcoming symposium organized by Slought Foundation and Cabinet Magazine exploring histories and metaphors of sloth.

Animal Junction is a traveling wildlife education company. They introduce children and adults to the fascinating world of exotic animals by providing zoology enrichment programs. Animal Junction enjoys the challenge of combining entertainment with education, thus providing an "edutainment" experience. Jungle Joe will talk about the animals' survival instinct, natural history, physical geography, natural behaviors and conservation education.

Organized by the RBSL Bergman Foundation Curatorial Seminar at the University of Pennsylvania.

Slought Foundation

New futures for contemporary life through art and theory
4017 Walnut Street, Philadelphia | Slought.org | 215.701.4627

